SHOTGUNS AND RANGE: When a Persona fires a a shotgun at a target, the closer the Persona is to the target the easier it is to hit them and the more Wound Damage they will do to the target. When firing at Short Range, the Persona gains +1 point of Wound Damage to their target, Medium or greater ranges do standard Wound Damage to their targets.

Laser Sights

When mounted to a firearm, this focuses a small red dot on the target. The bullet fired will hit the red dot barring some unusual circumstance. For game purposes, the shooter has an additional twenty percent of his or her skill added to the chance to hit. (e.g. A shooter gains a +1 to Firearms Checks and Contests when firing in darkness) This bonus is lost if the bullet strikes an intervening barrier such as a glass window or blade of grass and obviously such a shot will accrue negative modifiers.

Silencers

Silencers muffle the noise of a gunshot. Some weapons have permanently attached silencers while others can take screw on types. They are effective only on rifles, handguns, and submachine guns and do not work on revolving-action weapons. They tend to wear out quickly when used on fully automatic weapons. A silenced large-caliber pistol such as a Colt .45 (M1911A1) will make a noise roughly equivalent to a book being slammed onto a desk top. While this is better than a full fledged gunshot, it would easily be heard by anyone nearby.

Submachine Guns

Within the United States, all submachine guns are illegal for the average citizen to possess. The only individuals outside of law enforcement and military that are allowed by law to possess submachine guns are Corporate Mercenaries; and the only thing that allows them to possess them is their Commerical Mercenaries License which can only be purchased through the Department of Defense and only with a Corporate Sponsor.
