

ERIC SLADE

HOUSE LIONNES RAMIREZ FAMILY

You are one of the wealthiest men on the eastern seaboard of the United States. You have your fingers in many different pies, some legitimate, most not. You have a mansion estate in Arkham known as Tempus Victoriana that has stood and survived in Arkham for over a hundred years now. No one can remember exactly who built your estate and all of the original documentation and related papers were destroyed during the Great Arkham Fire back in the 1970s. Through your agents, you have been able to accumulate a wealth of incredibly personal, embarrassing, and downright dangerous information on Atlanteans across the Second Atlantean Empire. All of these people have been made to bend to your will and have become unwilling agents in your drive to become one of the most power and influential Atlanteans in the United States. If any one of your unwilling agents were ever to turn on you, you would release all of the information that you had on them where it will do the most harm and ruin their lives. The time has come to cut loose those that are no longer giving you useful information and to renegotiate your terms of blackmail with those that you plan to keep. So you have called a gathering, a private party at the Metal Church of Asmodeus dance club in the Arkham area to bring all of your agents together. So far none of your unwilling agents know what you look like, and because of this you are switching places with your bodyguard. For the evening he will be you and you will be him. He will be the one speaking with all of your agents as if he were you. You will quietly speak with Eric (the Bodyguard) throughout the evening whenever something comes up that could affect your plans, but other than that he is on his own to act in your stead. You may be power hungry, but you are not stupid. You have made arrangements with the club owner, a Revenant by the name of Lucian to quietly remove other unwilling agents that you have deemed no longer useful.