

VINCENT DRAGOSANI

HOUSE DRACONIS DRAGOSEE FAMILY

Long ago you decided to turn your back on politics and intrigue of Atlantean society. Unlike all of the other members of your generation, you decided that you would become a musician and that you would dedicate your life to that goal. For nearly 20 years you played your rock and rolls for the throngs of humanity, and about 5 years ago you decided to retire. After all, the alcohol, the sex, and the drugs were becoming starting to take their toll on you. About a year after entering retirement, you received a letter in the mail telling you that if you didn't pay a man named Ramirez the sum of 10 million dollars, that he would reveal all of your dirty secrets to the press; namely that unnamed hooker that was found dead in your hotel room about 15 years ago, that your manager quietly cleaned up and told you never to speak of it. During those days of sex, drugs and Rock n'Roll you had blown most of your fortune on drugs and alcohol, so there was no way to pay off this Ramirez guy. So you contacted the sender of the letter telling them that they were trying to get blood out of a stone. A few days later another letter came, this one telling you that if you didn't have the money to pay, you would pay in information. Since that day, you have been forced to rebuild all of your bridges to your family and have been feeding this Ramirez guy highly secretive information about House Draconis. About a month ago, you received a letter from Ramirez telling you to come to the city of Arkham at the Metal Church of Asmodeus, to a gathering of Atlanteans in order to renegotiate the terms of your debt. You know that you have to attend, but if your Family and House find out about what you have done, you stand to lose everything, including your life. At this point its either him or you, and you have decided to end this arrangement, even if force is required.